ConstructHub™ Featured in Construction Executive's Innovative Product Showcase Named in 2007 Hot Products, Technology Sector

TEMPE, Arizona, February 19, 2008 - 05:00 AM Construction Executive, the magazine for the business of construction, annually recognizes the vital role of manufacturers and suppliers to the construction process in its "Hot Products - Innovative Products Showcase". ConstructHub joins a prestigious group of technology products in 2007, gaining recognition for ConstructHub's industry-leading, web 2.0 project management solution.

The construction industry faces immense pressure to improve productivity. ConstructHub's premise of "Efficiency through Simplicity" defines the company and product. ConstructHub's intelligent technology infrastructure, user-friendly interface, live mobile connectivity, and construction-based leadership distinguish ConstructHub from first generation project management tools. ConstructHub allows construction management and field staff to focus on construction and not software, reaping success and financial results through real-time collaboration with multiple project stakeholders.

ConstructHub offers prospective users a 30-day free trial opportunity to test-drive the functionality with secure data access and customized template forms for construction management documents. Prospects have proven able to perform appropriate due diligence in evaluating ConstructHub within the 30-day period as supported with personalized attention from the ConstructHub team. The depth of online help available includes: documentation; chat; tutorials; and, the live ability to request enhancements in real-time.

ConstructHub emerged from beta-testing in the fourth quarter of 2007 and is quickly gaining industry acceptance and reputation as an unparalleled, unique solution to online construction project and program management. ConstructHub's development is led by construction professionals with singular focus on embodying the value of delivering "efficiency through simplicity" allowing construction professionals to focus on construction - not information technology management.
