ConstructHub™ Makes On-Line Construction Project Management Reality ROI Resource Efficiencies Supported by Technical Simplicity

TEMPE, Arizona, August 17,2007 - 05:00 AM ConstructHub, an innovative Construction and Project Management toolset, has completed comprehensive beta testing and announces the launch of true on-line construction project management with mobile support, single source data entry and secure on-demand business data.

ConstructHub was conceptually designed and developed by experienced construction professionals. Frustrated by clunky, slow applications that did not intercommunicate, ConstructHub's mission is to streamline construction business processes and deliver measurable efficiencies through real-time visibility into the financial, human resources, and project management functions of construction management.

ConstructHub speaks to the business need for agility and efficiency to achieve competitive advantage and bottom-line financial results. "ConstructHub has easily prevented us from having to hire additional employees while increasing our number of projects managed" shares Project Manager Chris Bailey of Palisade Construction, a regional general contractor.

A technologically mature software as a service, ConstructHub requires no client code, no installation, no upgrades and no IT staff management. ConstructHub holds no proprietary allegiances to any technology platform, operating systems, browsers, servers or databases.

ConstructHub is a proven product that leads the market in ease-of-use, single point of entry, 24/7 access to current data, providing accurate real-time visibility into business operations for the numerous stakeholders in construction management.
